

10 Commandments of Teachers

1. Thou shalt not talk too much
2. Thou shalt not talk about thyself too much
3. Thou shalt not ask only yes or no questions
4. Thou shalt not answer thine own questions
5. Thou shalt not talk in a monotone voice
6. Thou shalt not avoid eye contact with members
7. Thou shalt not read the lesson
8. Thou shalt not ignore hands raised for comments
9. Thou shalt not be argumentative
10. Thou shalt not come unprepared for the session

Are you breaking any of these? If so, it's never too late to change. To get different results we must try different things. I like the words of Albert Einstein who said "Insanity: doing the same thing over and over again and expecting different results." Why not start improving today?
